Since the Baby Died.

The home has been so strangely still

Since the baby died.

The birds no longer seem to fill

Since the baby died.

The sunshine's gone and shadows of gloom

Lark in the corners of the room;

The roses have a fainter bloom

Since the baby died.

The stars seem brighter than before

Since the baby died.

We're nearer to the other shore

Since the baby died.

Silvery, supple, with a happy knack

Of never suggesting sin.

A dash of white, a flash of hose.

Smiling from above, as if no light

Could have been so sweet an hour."

THE BEE, NOVEMBER 1, 1904

FOREVER AND FOREVER

Two little streamlets leapt and flowed,
And sang their songs together;
They felt alike the Summer zephyr,
And here the stormy weather.
The softness blossoms faded them both
In colors rich and rare;
And in each stream the song birds wooed
Their bright reflections there.
And on, and on, and on they dated,
Each leaping toward the river,
And then they met at a kiss and part
Forever and forever.

Two human lives, two kindred hearts,
By destiny's decree,
Met in the spring of life to learn
In deepest mystery.
They dreamed their morning dreams of hope
Through life's unclouded weather;
They opened love's bewitching book
And read it through together.
They saw in each another's eyes
A deep unspoken love;
And from each other's lips they took
Love's ever ready lips.

And then the fate that crushes all
The sweetest dreams here
Turned hope's glad music to a sob
In glory to a tear.
It stepped between them as it moved
The love it could not kill;
It bade them live in fury live
And love and suffer still.

They tried with contrived hands to keep
False love, unyielding "Never."
The voice of destiny replied:
"Forever and forever."

None is so wild, imagined there,
No life fancy flight,
It lives through daylight's busy hours,
And haunts the silent night.
The walk of sorrow fills the air,
It rears, it creeps, it crawls;
It wears some soul, it breaks some heart,
Forever and forever.

TROLLEYS FOR FARMERS

The Many Use to Which Electricity Could Be Put in the Country.

From Illinois it is announced that plans have been perfected for an experimental trolley plant in the rich prairie farming country, where electricity will be used not only for supplying cheap passenger transportation, but for performing farm work as well. This opens endless possibilities for the trolley system, and the success of the experiment will be watched with great interest.

The advocates of the new plan say that in a good farming country where there is a creditable amount of stock to be hauled to the city, it is entirely practicable to establish a central power house, and from this to generate electricity for a number of uses. The wires could be run along the main road if the power house is situated on one, and from this extend branches in the directions as the business would warrant. Aside from the carrying of passengers, which would be conducted in the same way as now, the electric railway connecting with some steam railroad, the electric current would be used in a variety of other ways.

With traction wagons, such as are more common in the West than here, all the hauling of the neighborhood could be done. It would require no change in the construction of the farm wagons, for they could be loaded at now and picked up along the road by the traction wagon. The only limit to the number of wagons that might be taken in one train would be the power and strength of the hauling machinery. All the farmer would have to do would be to have his load made up in the morning and stay at home and attend to his work while his wagon was taken to town in the electrical train and the contents disposed of there by an engine. There would be no limit to the load which he could ship at one time except the capacity of his wagon. Most of his horses could be dispensed with, and shipments could be made more quickly, and in greater quantities than now.

The use of the power from the trolley wire need not be limited to traction on the road, however. The wire could be tapped for every farm and the power used for all farm purposes. The traction engine could be drawn by electricity instead of horses. The threshing could be done without the use of a traveling steam engine, with its expense for fuel and attendants. Even butter could be churned by electricity and the dryers of the farm work generally reduced.

Carrying the idea still further, it is suggested that country roads be lighted with electricity and electric lights introduced into the farm house, illuminating it brightly and making it more cheerful.

From the standpoint of the suburban resident every railroad station of any importance would be connected by trolley railways with the country, lying about it, and in this way the area of territory available for this suburban resident would grow, thus settling the small manufacturer's promises of establishments, as well as could have and from the stations, saving the teaming that now often eats up much of the profits. Electricians look forward to these developments as the natural growth of a few years.—Philadelphia Record.

To Cure a Cold.

Colds neglected are the foundation for many of the diseases afflicting men as well as domestic animals. A cold closes the pores of the skin, the refuse matter of the body that usually exudes through the pores is thrown back upon the lungs, into the blood, and thence upon the liver, affecting the stomach, bowels and every function of the body.

To cure a cold, take a large dose of Carlsbad's German Liver Powder at bed time. This will clean the bowels, stimulate the action of the liver and aid digestion. Then take ten grains of quinine, if possible, a hot bath, or in some cases start perspiration. Keep yourself perfectly free from cold on the following day, and your cold will be cured. This treatment will cost you only 25¢ per bottle at Robinson Bros' drug store.

A Wily Doctor.
"You see that man crossing the street? Well, I am greatly indebted to him, and indeed I can't tell you how much I owe him. One thing is certain—I never can repay him."

"He must be your father, since there is no other man to whom you could be under such obligations."

"No, he's my landlord."

Sick Headache.

Nervous or sick headache is usually caused by derangement of the stomach. Many "headache cures" are narcotics which soothe or paralyze the nerves communicating between the stomach and brain. They are harmful and frequently dangerous. Carlsbad's German Liver Powder, taken at the seat of the difficulty, stimulates the action of the stomach and liver and restores the stomach frequently accomplishing permanent cure. Take a dose of the Syrup when the first symptoms of an attack are felt, and it will usually prevent it. A dose after the attack, repeated in two or three hours, if not relieved, will usually cure the worst case. An occasional dose by persons subject to the disease is generally a sure preventative. Price 50¢ and $1.00 per bottle at Robinson Bros' drug store. Sample bottles free.

Genius Appreciated.

The humorous contributor was talking to the horse editor when he heard a terrific crash in the composing room on the floor above.

"What's that?" he exclaimed, starting to run.

"That's all right," said the editor, soothingly, "it's only the 'devil' tumbling to one of your jokes."

Carlsbad's German Liver Syrup

is the most pleasant and effective remedy known to cure gently, yet promptly, on the stomach and bowels, and to cleanse the system effectually. It cures habitual constipation permanently, dispels colds, headaches and fevers, and prevents the many ills that result from a weak or inactive condition of the organs on which it acts. Price 50¢ and $1.00 per bottle at Robinson Bros' drug store.

Just Once.

She—And you say you would die for me?

Mr. Borsome—A thousand times.

She—Would you mind doing just once—right away? You know scraps have been elected corner and he hasn't had any practice yet.

A Frank Opinion.

He—When I marry I shall choose a woman who takes me for what I am.

She—If she marries you it will be because she takes you for what you are not.

An honest Swede tells his story in plain but unobtainable language for the benefit of the public. "One of my children told a secret to me and got the cough. I gave her a teaspoon full of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and in five minutes later I gave her another. By this time she had to cough up the gathering in her throat. Then she went to sleep and slept for fifteen minutes. Then she got up and coughed, and she went back to bed and slept good for the remainder of the night. She got the cough the second night and I gave her the same remedy with the same good results. I write this because I thought there might be some one in the same need and not know the true nature of this wonderful medicine."—Chas. Thompson, Des Moines, Iowa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by St. Bernard drug store, Earlington; Don T. Robinson, Chicago; Cap. George King, St. Charles.

The local organ of the Home-Steel makers announces that the strike is over. This is all right, but what the public wants to know is who made anything out of it and what it was all about, and why it should have occurred.—New York Advertiser.

Hope must spring eternal in the breast of Ex-Senator Ingot. At the age of 59 he announces that he has entered upon the task of reclaiming Kansas. However the Coffeyville incident helped him along some.

Science shows that every pound of coal has a dynamic energy equal to the amount of work one man can do in a day, but this is no reason why it should take a day's work to pay for it.—New York Herald.

A colored belle is not a black crook because she is bent on matrimony.—Birmingham Republic.

"Much adue about nothing," remarked the summer boarder when his bill was presented.

Take Your Boy Justly.

Study your boy's tastes and his abilities. If he is an every-day sort of a matter don't try to make something else out of him by putting a lion skin on him. A lion is no better than a lamb. If it were God would have made a lamb of lions. If your boy is built for a plow horse don't spoil the plow horse trying to make him a racer. He will not make one, and he will be spoiled in disposition for anything. Teaching him to make the best of the talents that are given him and he will be a credit to himself and to you.—Homo.

As Testimony.

Charles James Fox when canvassing Westminster, applied to a shopkeeper for his vote and interest. The man produced a halter with which he, he was ready to oblige him. "Thank you," replied Fox, "for your kind offer, but I should be sorry to deprive you of so valuable a family relic."

German Economic Blot.

None better. Quirt for cents. Place contents of package in a quart of rice or soft water, and it is ready for use. Acknowledged by housekeepers to be the cheapest and best bluing made. For sale by druggists everywhere. If not obtainable in your city, send for a sample by package postpaid. Carlsbad Medicine Co. Evansville, Ind. For sale at Robinson Bros.
